What should I expect?

The District of Columbia, located between the states of Maryland and Virginia, is home to 572,000 people in the city itself and 5.4 million people in the greater metropolitan area. More than 16,000 people are homeless in Washington D.C. during the course of a year. Several community development initiatives are underway to help families find employment and affordable housing and lend support to the large number of children (38.6 percent) living in poverty.

Our goal is to partner with local ministries and programs such as homeless shelters, soup kitchens, and elderly and children centers that seek to address the very basic needs of Washington DC's residents. We desire to serve unselfishly, by doing whatever will truly help the community.

Evening activities during a Youth-Works week are designed to give participants insight into the lives of local residents and the culture of the area. A list of evening/cultural activities we have done in the past include: ride the Metro and visit the Capital; visit the Washington, Lincoln, Vietnam and Korean Memorials; attend a local church service, and take part in a community cookout.

This trip is an awesome opportunity to serve others and grow in your relationship with Christ. Not only will you bless others through your service, but you will be blessed in many different ways!!
